FORMER RESIDENT ARRESTED IN K. C.

MISS B. A. GOODSON HELD IN KANSAS CITY ON USURY CHARGE

IS WELL KNOWN HERE

Arthur Miller of Kansas City, Also a Former Resident, Is Her Attorney

According to today's Kansas City Journal, Miss B. A. Goodson, formerly of Maryville, was arrested in that city yesterday on a charge of usury. The paper mentioned that her attorney was Arthur Miller of Kansas City, who is also a former Maryville resident. It was thought that the Miss Goodson mentioned in the newspaper article is the daughter of the late Dr. Goodson of this city.

The article follows.

Six alleged "loan sharks," including a woman and a Negro, were arraigned yesterday, and capias warrants issued in three other new cases.

The warrants charge usury and were issued late in the afternoon by the prosecutor's office.

The concerns and the men named as heads in the warrants are Employes Loan and Investment company, 305 Bonfils building, R. Becker; C. P. Woods Investment company, 925 Walnut street, C. P. Woods, and the Family Loan and Investment company, Charles Conklin.

James Elder, detective working out of the prosecutor's office, was unable to obtain service on the warrants up to a late hour yesterday. The three investment concerns were under "lock and key" when he attempted to serve the warrants.

The new companies charged with exceeding the legal rate of 8 per cent interest have been dealt with in a similar manner as the first companies accused by the prosecutor's office. The warrants issued jointly charge each company and its executive officer with responsibility for charging excessive interest rates.

The six alleged "loan sharks" who were arraigned before Judge E. E. Porterfield of the criminal court on additional charges of usury will be tried in the criminal court November 5.

Miss B. A. Goodson of the Intercity Finance company, 507 Reliance building, the first woman to have usury charges filed against her, was released on a $3,000 bond. Two counts were filed by the prosecuting attorney's office against Miss Goodson, who resides at 3620 the Paseo. Arthur Miller, 5834 Central street, an attorney, qualified on her bond.

According to attorneys, Miss Goodson is the first woman in the history of Jackson county to be charged with violating the state's legal interest rate.

She came to Kansas City two years ago from Maryville, Mo.

In the courtroom of Judge Porterfield, yesterday afternoon, Miss Goodson refused to discuss the charges filed against her.

The five men, one a Negro, arraigned with Miss Goodson, are J. F. Cox, General Investment company; W. D. Owens, C. Owens, Union Finance company; R. U. Reed, Kansas City Finance company, and Harry A. Taylor, Negro, 815 Washington boulevard, Kansas City, Kan. All pleaded not guilty.

Mr. Cox, W. D. Owens and C. Owens were arraigned on two other charges of usury prior to their arraignment yesterday. They were released on $500 bonds.

The arraignment of Mr. Reed was his third on four charges within the past ten days.

Taylor, a Negro freight handler at the Union Pacific freight house, was remanded to jail by Judge Porterfield in default of $2,000 bond following his arraignment. He is alleged to have charged 40 per cent interest to fellow employes.

Has Spent Twenty Years as Rural Carrier

W. M. Spargur, carrier on rural route No. 3 out of Burlington Junction, rounded out twenty years as a rural mail carrier on Wednesday of last week. Mr. Spargur figures that in that length of time he has traveled approximately 156,000 miles and has handled 1,220,000 pieces of mail. Until the past few years the daily trips were made with a horse and buggy but of late years he has used a car.

Mr. Spargur has a record not often equaled in the mail service and has just right to be proud of same. He will be entitled to retire on a pension in two years, but from his looks he is good for several more years of active service and will no doubt be on the job a long time yet.—Burlington Junction Post.

TO SOW NORTHERN VARIETY OF SEED

ALFALFA GROWERS OF COUNTY TO TRY OUT DAKOTA SEED

DEMONSTRATION CITED

R. A. Kinnaird Tells of What Dakota Seed Meant to Farm Near Stanberry—Local Farmers to Innoculate

Several farmers are going to try out some hardy northern grown alfalfa seed this fall, R. A. Kinnaird said this morning.

Several years ago, Robert Larmer, now working in the Economy Store, planted alfalfa seed from three different sources on a field near Stanberry. One-third of the field was sown with common alfalfa seed from Kansas. Another third was sown with common Nebraska grown seed and the other third was sown with alfalfa seed of the Grimm type, which has a branched root system. This seed was obtained from South Dakota, and was Disco No. 28 variety, which is a registered type of seed.

Mr. Larmer says that he had the best field of alfalfa in Gentry County at that time. For several years he watched the results and he found that the Dakota seed produced a brand with finer and thicker stems. Many times, he said, when he cut the field, he would get about twelve loads of hay from the part sown with common seed and at the same time, he would get about eighteen loads from the part sown with Dakota seed.

After a few years, he noticed that the stand of alfalfa where the Kansas and Nebraska seed was used, was gradually thinned out. The stand remained good where the Dakota seed was used. Several farmers of Nodaway County are going to sow this kind of seed this fall.

John Blackburn of Parnell is going to put in about three acres, Fred Bellows is sowing ten acres, Fayette Bellows will put in about sixteen acres and D. O. Belt will sow about eight acres. All of them are going to use culture to innoculate the seed.

COMMISSION CALLS CONFERENCE TODAY

REPRESENTATIVES ARE BROUGHT TOGETHER IN FINAL EFFORT

THREE QUESTION ASKED

Action of United States Coal Commission Brought About by Efforts of President Coolidge

New York, Aug. 17—In a last effort to avoid the threatened strike of 150,000 anthracite coal miners on September 1, the United States Coal Commission brought together here today representatives of miners and operaors in a joint session and directed them to make a final attempt to reach an agreement that will avoid the strike in the coal fields, September 1.

The members of the conference are asked to report by eight o'clock tonight.

Three questions have been asked to which answers are expected by tonight. These questions are:

1. Whether you can reach an agreement over the matters now in dispute and negotiate new contract by September 1?
2. Whether, in the event that you are unable by September 1 to reach an agreement on the matters in controversy, will you agree on a plan that will insure a continuance of mining after September 1 and until such time as an agreement can be reached?
3. Whether in the event that you find yourselves unable to reach an agreement, you can agree on some plan by which a contract can be made?

These are reports current that the action of the United States Coal Commission was brought about by the efforts of President Coolidge, who has been keeping in close touch with developments.

New York, Aug. 17—With chairman John Hays Hammond of the United States Coal Commission declaring that "Frankly, the outlook is discouraging," the miners and operators resumed conference again this morning in an effort to reach an agreement that would enable them to make a new contract to replace the one that expires August 31.

A failure of the present conference would mean a strike of the 150,000 anthracite coal miners on September 1 unless the commission is able to do something to head it off. Members of the coal commission will go to Washington, it is said, and confer with President Coolidge on further steps to be taken.

Once more, the difficulty between the miners and operators hangs around the "check off" of both the miners and operators, after the way had apparently been paved for an agreement yesterday morning.

Yesterday morning, Lewis unofficially agreed to cease his demands for check off through which union dues are taken from the miners' wages and sent direct to union headquarters by the operators.

S. D. Warriner, chairman of the operators, agreed to abandon a check off system by which money is subtracted from miners' wages for rental food, tools, fuel and other accounts.

A few hours later, Lewis announced that he had found five "jokers" in the operators' agreement. "We made an honest proposition; stated it in writing," Lewis said, "but the operators are trying to put several "jokers" in their agreement."

Warriner said, "Lewis is quibbling over words. The fact of the matter is that he made a proposition to the operators that he thought they would not accept."

Clouds hung over the headquarters of both factions early this morning. The miners will not arbitrate, and unless an agreement is reached before August 31, there will be no anthracite coal mined, and the 150,000 miners will strike immediately, union leaders declare.

Northeast Missouri is the only section of the state where there is no county health department and one might be located there.

Flood Follows Terrific Cloudburst Early Last Night Which Swept Through Platte Canyon

Denver, Colo., Aug. 17—Lowland farms near Littleton, Englewood and Gerome were inundated with flood waters from the Platte River here today.

KEMMERER'S DEAD ARE BURIED TODAY

CROWD OF SYMPATHETIC PERSONS PAY HOMAGE TO DEAD

IMPRESSIVE CEREMONY

All Creeds Unite In Funeral Services Held In Public Square—Roberts' Body Is Found—Inquest Today

Kemmerer, Wyo., Aug. 17—Kemmerer's great grief was expressed in the public square of the town today when hundreds of the mourners, friends and fellow workers of the ninety-nine victims of the Frontier mine No. 1 disaster, paid homage to their departed dead.

It was one of the most impressive ceremonies ever held in Wyoming.

The American flag was flying at half mast as the caskets containing seventy-five bodies were lined in the square. Scores of visitors from near by towns were present at the ceremonies this morning. Representatives from various civic, religious and fraternal organizations paid their respects to the dead.

The Rev. P. P. Syzmauski, priest of the Catholic Church, arose to offer prayer. Bishop Jensen of the Mormon Church read a passage of scripture, and a touching address of sympathy was delivered by one of the Protestant ministers here. Harry W. Fox of the United Mine Workers of America made a short address expressing the regrets of the miners of America over the recent catastrophe. Hymn selections were rendered by the Kemmerer community chorus consisting of representatives from Protestant, Catholic and Mormon churches of Kemmerer.

The long funeral cortege started the long, sad journey to the cemetery a half mile west of town. The graves were finally finished just as the procession reached the cemetery. Two hundred volunteers had dug steadily into the hard earth. Each hole was large enough for eight bodies. The other victims were laid in private graves or sent to cemeteries in near by towns to be laid to their final rest.

"Tommy" Roberts, the last man to be removed from the mine, was the first to be interred by the Odd Fellows lodge of Kemmerer. He entered the mine on the fatal day as substitute worker for his brother, Jim, who had refused to leave the mine until his brother's body had been recovered. He found it. It was in a sitting position near a large rock.

Latest figures given out by the mine officials disclose that 136 workers entered the mine, 37 of which were recovered alive. The inquest, which will be held today, is not expected to bring out any sensational developments.

The mine officials today stood on their original statement that the explosion was caused by a blown out shot.

Estimates made today by mine officials, indicated that the death toll in the explosion will cost the state workmen's compensation fund approximately $200,000 in compensation to be paid survivors of those who lost their lives.

The club has passed a resolution pledging the support of the Republican county committee to President Coolidge.

Excelsior Springs, Mo., Aug. 17—"Old Shep" a large collie belonging to Frances Madden of Excelsior Springs Junction became the uncrowned king of this city when he saved the life of Madden's nephew, Harold.

The boy was visiting his uncle on the uncle's farm and, like all 16-year-old boys, had a desire to ride.

His uncle allowed him to ride one of the mules in after the day's plowing was finished and Harold started off, with Shep at a trot beside him.

But Missouri mules are Missouri mules, and the one Harold was riding was no exception. Perhaps it was fright or perhaps it was the born perversity of the breed, but the animal started lunging.

Leaping upward, Shep grabbed the bridle between his teeth and held on until the mule became quiet and help came to release the boy, who had become caught upon the harness hames.

Young Madden was taken to a local hospital where his injuries were treated and Shep was taken home to receive the best dinner he ever ate and the admiring and envious glances of common Excelsior Springs "houn's."

Columbia, Mo., Aug. 17—One side of the steeple on a local church was ripped off in a freak electrical storm which swept Columbia, the lightning reaching down to peck at the tips of three buildings, but doing no great damage.

Kansas City, Mo., Aug. 17—The Coolidge-Hyde boom, launched in the East, was picked up in Missouri by Kansas City Republicans and given an enthusiastic start.

With the avowed intention of booming President Calvin Coolidge and Governor Arthur M. Hyde of Missouri for the Republican nomination for President and vice-president respectively, in 1924, seventh ward Republicans formed the first "Coolidge-Hyde Club" in the United States.

The Coolidge-Hyde idea came out in the East. The Missouri governor while in Washington last week, called on the President. Immediately Republican leaders interested in the President's future started talking about Hyde as running mate for Coolidge in 1924.

Political writers, including William Hard, interpreted the attitude of the Eastern leaders to mean that they planned to support Coolidge and Hyde next year.

Kansas City, Aug. 17—Mrs. Etta Fullam, 29, 1302 the Paseo, was bruised and cut last night when the door of the motor car in which she was riding came open and allowed her to fall to the road. She was sitting on a drop seat with her back to the door. She was taken to the eGneral hospital where her condition is said to be not serious.

Kansas City, Aug. 17—Kansas City, Kansas detectives turned matadors today and enacted a scene that might have taken place in far away Spain.

Instead of cheering throngs, however, their spectators were a hundred or more badly frightened residents of this city. The residents had taken refuge behind barricaded doors and on housetops while a maddened bull, after seriously injuring its owner, was ranting its wrath on chicken coops and garages which obstructed its path.

Stanley Beatty and Harold Hendricks, detectives, received a call at 5 o'clock to Center addition which lies between Rosedale and Argentine, Kan.

The sight which greeted them was unusual, even to detectives. Early risers had taken refuge in the handiest places of safety. On the ground the detectives found Quincy Harris, negro, 50 years old, owner of the bull, with a broken shoulder blade and a serious wound in his side. The injuries were sustained when the bull gored him. Dr. R. C. Hayden was called and treated Harris' injuries.

A short distance away they found the bull, frothing at the mouth and in no mood for submission. The animal was valuable and they did not wish to kill it so they assumed the role of matadors and staged a bull fight. While it may not have been so picturesque it was as lively as those of sunny Spain. The bull ran and the detectives pursued him. The detectives were experienced in cornering criminals, but rounding up a bull was a new experience. They maneuvered and slipped stealthily up behind the animal and finally succeeded in driving him between a wagon and a woodshed where he was lassoed and hog-tied. The animal was returned to his corral. Harris, who is in a serious condition at his home, said that the bull had never acted that way before.

Someone misses something every day if he or she misses reading daily the columns of The Democrat-Forum.

This was proven the other day in the case of the lady who accompanied by a friend went to the store of a leading merchant in this town. The lady asked to look at boys' blouses. She then asked the price of a certain blouse which she picked out.

"This blouse is 90c," said the clerk.

The lady was not able to conceal the surprise in her voice at the words of the clerk, "Why Mrs....., you told me that you bought this same blouse here for 75c just a short time ago. The friend chose to let the clerk do the replying. "That's true, said the clerk, but that was during our annual sale."

"You had a sale!" exclaimed the lady, "that's strange; I didn't hear anything about it."

"Well that's too bad," answered the clerk, "we advertised it in the Democrat-Forum; others sure read the ads judging by the results of our sale."

This is just one incident—it cost this lady 15c that time just because she hadn't read the paper. Every day some merchant in Maryville is trying to tell you how, when and where you can do your shopping most economically. Read the advertisements daily in the Democrat-Forum and save yourself trouble, time and money.

SOUTH SIDE DRUGGISTS

The Truth About Gasoline Prices

THE Standard Oil Company (Indiana) has announced an immediate reduction in the price of gasoline of 6.6c per gallon applicable throughout the entire territory in which it does business.

It asserts that the retail prices thus made are below the cost of production and distribution.

The Governor of the State of South Dakota, buying distress gasoline below cost of production, and charging against the State no adequate cost of distribution, is selling gasoline to the public in the State of South Dakota at 16c per gallon.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana), operating on its established policy that the customers who purchase its goods should never be compelled to pay a higher price than that fixed and maintained by any competitor, quality and service being duly considered, has met this price.

Other State Executives and Officers of municipalities, with entire propriety, have suggested that any prices made in South Dakota be made applicable in their States. Competitors in other states and communities over the territory, also buying distress gasoline below cost of production, have also cut the prices hitherto established and maintained, in substantial amounts.

In establishing the above price, the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) is not endeavoring to injure any of its competitors in any way.

It deprecates the stand taken by some of its competitors that the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) is endeavoring, by reason of meeting these cuts in price and these demands for lower prices, to put its competitors out of business.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) does not wish to put any competitor out of business because it feels that competitors are necessary to the successful conduct of its business. It will welcome a change of attitude on the part of all parties concerned resulting in a reasonable price for gasoline which will enable not only it but all of its competitors to enjoy a reasonable profit.

It recognizes that the majority of its competitors are fine business men, entitled to the fairest treatment both by the public and by this Company.

The present situation is an exact parallel to one where the butcher, the grocer, the druggist, the dry goods and shoe merchants and every other retailer would be forced to sell at less than the wares cost.

How long would it last? What would a condition like this do to all of us—if it persisted and spread?

We want no monopoly—seek none. We want your trade—but only on the basis of quality and service—not as the result of impossible prices.

We want competition—you want us to have it. It makes the scales of business balance.

These are not idle words. They mean just what they say.

Points Way to Avoid Crossing Accidents

Supreme Court Justice Charles C. VanKirk of the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court of the State of New York, sitting in the Third Department, has just pointed out in clear, unmistakable language in one of his opinion how motorists can avoid railroad crossing accidents with their inevitable death toll.

In this opinion, worthy of wide circulation among motorists, Justice VanKirk said: "The safe limit to speed in approaching a crossing is that speed at which the driver of an automobile, as he arrives at a point where he can see an oncoming train, when it is near enough to render crossing ahead dangerous, can stop his car if necessary before he reaches the track. It is futile to look when one cannot see. If he cannot see without stopping he must stop. If he sees a train threatening danger to him, of course he must stop; if he cannot see whether or not he is so threatened, likewise he must stop."

The case presented to the Appellate Division the elements that usually are brought forth in a crossing accident. The motorist killed was driving over the state road in an automobile and was struck by a train on a grade crossing. There were warning signs on the highway approaching the crossing, and the controversy taken on appeal centered on the interpretation of Section 53-A of the railroad law in relation to these signs.

In his decision Justice VanKirk said:

"A new vehicle has come into general use, which has occupied our highways to the exclusion almost of horse drawn vehicles. Not only are more people exposed to danger because many more now travel on highways, but because those riding in trains likewise are put in jeopardy by the motor car; an automobile often carries five or six persons rather than one or two; a bus may carry a dozen and a train often carries scores.

"Because of its weight, its momentum, its inertia, its strong mental construction and its speed it wrecks trains. On the other hand when properly driven and maintained in good condition, it is under complete control; it may be stopped or started at will; it will stand without hitching and may be safely left unattended; it will not take fright at a train, however close to its nose."

Having distinctly pointed out that the automobile as a machine has no responsibility for accidents, the justice, continuing in his opinion, holds the driver to his responsibilities, saying:

"Having provided for a sign and how and by whom it shall be placed, the statute in peremptory language provides 'It shall be the duty of the driver of any vehicle using such a street or highway and crossing to reduce speed to a safe limit upon passing such sign and to proceed cautiously and carefully with the vehicle under complete control.'

"It is our view," continues the opinion, "that, if the drivers of automobiles obey this statute to its letter and its intent, seldom if ever will injuries be suffered at grade crossings. The price of safety by obedience to this statute means no more than three or four seconds of time—a small price for a life."

What should be the position of the elbows in the drive?

Answered by

BOB MacDONALD

Veteran tournament player, winner of the Metropolitan open championship, 1921, and the Texas open championship, 1922. Famous the world over for long distance driving.

The position of the elbows varies but there are several fundamental rules concerning them which do not. The elbows should never separate at the half-way point of the swing. Both must hug the body at the start and, although they leave the body on the up-swing, the distance between them must not vary.

Maryville Light Co., Wants to Light Albany

Through the Albany papers last week, the Maryville Electric Light & Power Company addressed a message to the citizens of Albany setting forth the reasons why the company could furnish light and power to Albany citizens at a saving over what they are now paying by supporting a municipal plant. The company proposes to buy the Albany plant, maintain it as an emergency plant and furnish light and power for Albany from the Maryville plant, as it now does Grant City, King City and Stanberry, all of which had local plants before the Maryville company installed its transmission lines.

The Albany city council has apparently refused to act in the matter until convinced that the people favor the proposition and the message to the people asks that they investigate the company's proposal and report their findings to the city council.

Pimples

The foundation for a beautiful skin simply is not there, and no face treatment can give it to you. But increase your red-blood-cells,—and quickly the ruby tint of purity begins to glow in the cheeks, the complexion becomes venus-like and immaculate! Try it. It will do it every time. S. S. Alfalfa Seed Should be Innoculated

R. A. Kinnaird, County Farm Agent, Tells Experience of Alfred Jones, Northeast of Maryville

Many farmers doubt the benefit of innoculating their alfalfa seed, because they have never had a chance to see a very striking demonstration of its affect. If they innoculate the alfalfa seed, they innoculate it all, so that it is all alike.

Alfred Jones, northeast of Maryville, had a very striking demonstration of the effect of innoculation. Three years ago this fall, R. A. Kinnaird, county farm agent, secured enough culture from the United States Department of Agriculture, to innoculate a bushel of seed.

Mr. Jones used this culture on the amount of seed that he thought would sow his patch, but he used the seed more freely than he thought, so he finished up with seed that was not innoculated, and the same kind of seed was used.

There was no striking difference in the very young alfalfa that fall but the following spring, the alfalfa grown from the innoculated seed was much more thrifty and made a larger growth and a much larger yield than where he used uninnoculated seed. The difference was very striking for two years, when the other alfalfa by that time had become innoculated naturally and was just as good. However, for two years there was a very striking difference.

Mr. Jones said, "I have had enough experience with innoculation that I will never sow any more alfalfa without it."

The above example of the effect of innoculation was reported by R. A. Kinnaird, county farm agent.

More Acres of Good Plowing

It Lasts Longer

John Deere Stag Sulky

You buy a plow for its use, and it's the use that determines the real cost and the real value of the plow. You will find that the John Deere Stag costs less and pays most because of its unusually good work for an unusually long time.

It's all plow. Frameless—no unneccessary parts—strong, compact construction—known as "the plow of fewest parts and fewest repairs."

Does high-grade work—genuine John Deere bottom scours, wears long and makes good seed beds. A type for every soil. Share is quick detachable.

Unusual clearance between beam and share point and between front wheel and moldboard prevents clogging in trashy land.

Simple, easy control—handy landing lever enables operator to change width of cut instantly—kinks can be taken out of furrow—full-width cut can be maintained in plowing around stones—plow can be held to its work on hillsides.

Poleless—gets into corners and up close to fences. Pole attachment furnished if desired.

Pulls light—weight is properly balanced and all-wheel-carried—no landside friction or dropping of bottom.

If it's a gang plow you want, remember, we have the John Deere Stag Gang built like the Stag Sulky.

YOUR STAG is here, ready to begin a long life of good seed bed-making on your farm. Come in and get it the next time you are in town.
